

10 Quotes from Leaders on Life, Teamwork and Success

Zillow Group often invites leaders in business and innovation to our offices to speak about life and their careers.

Over the years we've hosted presidents, CEOs, athletes and actors. Here are some of our favorite pieces of advice on life, teamwork and success (so far).

Arianna Huffington

Co-Founder and Editor-in-Chief of The Huffington Post

“Our eulogies have very little to do with our LinkedIn profiles. Have you ever heard anyone say during a eulogy, ‘You know, George was amazing. He increased market share by one-third?’”

President Barack Obama

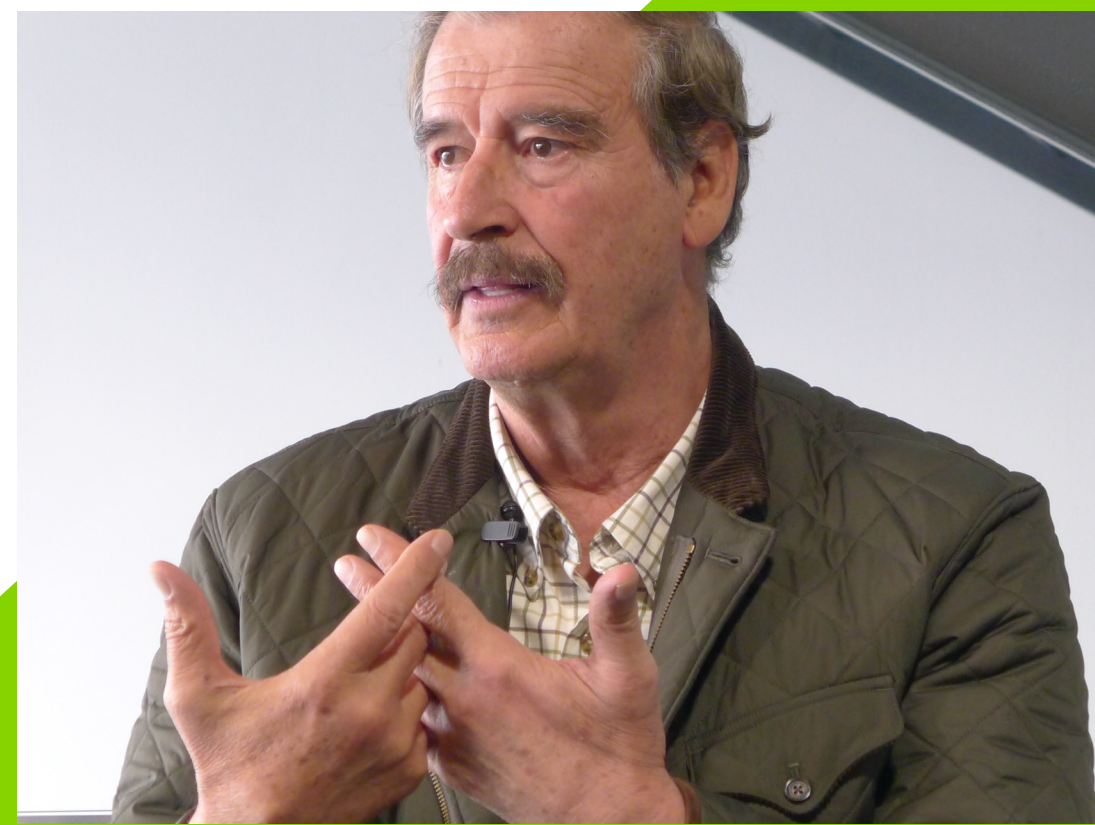

“Homeownership is the quintessential element of the American Dream.”

Vicente Fox

Former President of Mexico

“We all must work together for one purpose. That’s teamwork. That’s what brings success and what can serve to help bring happiness to every child and every community in the world.”

Rainn Wilson

Actor, The Office

“One of the things they’ve discovered scientifically is that focusing on ourselves actually makes you more unhappy, and it’s working for others and in service to other people that actually boosts people’s happiness.”

Hadi Partovi

CEO and Co-Founder of Code.org

“It’s way better to start a startup when you think it is a bad idea because that is when no one else is doing it. And contrarian ideas are usually the big successes.”

Cliff Avril

Defensive End for the Seattle Seahawks

"I've learned to put my pride aside for the bigger picture – for the team."

Jim Weber

CEO of Brooks Running

“When you’re at an inflection point in business, true courage comes from either seeing incredible opportunity or standing at the edge of a cliff and looking at fear of failure.”

Jane Park

CEO and Founder of Julep

“Success is only a pause between huge phases of things going wrong. You are not achieving things unless you are outside of your comfort zone.”

Ken Lowe

Chairman of the Board, President and CEO of Scripps Networks Interactive

“Sometimes the hardest thing in the world is to stay focused and not chase a lot of other things.”

Tom Douglas

Chef and Restaurateur

“Every person [in your company] needs to understand their value, from the host to the guy who sweeps the sidewalk.”
